LODGE OF SORROW WELL ATTENDED

In memory of their departed brothers, the Elks held their annual Lodge of Sorrow yesterday afternoon at the Hawaiian Opera House, and in spite of the downpour of rain which prevailed throughout the afternoon, a large crowd gathered to witness the impressive ceremonies. The stage was decorated for the occasion with palms and Elk emblems while the officers of the lodge were seated in a semi-circle around a vacant chair which was draped in black.

The program was opened by the Honolulu Symphony society and the Elks opening ode was sung by the members in the audience. The roll call of the absent brothers was read by Secretary Herbert Dunshee and he was responded to by the lighting of an electric candle after each name was read. After the roll call a quartet sang "Nearer My God to Thee," while the officers stood with bowed heads. Mrs. Charles L. Hall sang "Hear Me, O Father," and Madame Pla, Senor Pla, and Miss Mulhali rendered two sacred selections.

The address of the occasion was made by United States Judge Sanford B. Dole, who had chosen for his subject "Truth and the Golden Rule," in which he made a plea for better living among the people of Honolulu. He pointed out the results of crushing the evil in one's heart and what would come if only good prevailed.

The benediction was made by Rev. Mr. Kroll and the committee in charge were J. L. Coke, Lorrin Andrews, Raymond Irwin, J. W. Campbell, H. F. Wichman, G. W. Ashley, Sr., and W. D. Adams. The ushers were J. F. Doyle, F. B. Buckley, George Martin, Charles P. Murray, C. G. Schweitzer and M. Hanna.

NEW MOTOR FOR SHIPS

George Washington advances a novel idea, which may become of decided value should the United States again seek to regain its position on the high seas. He claims that he has under construction at the great plant of his company at Pittsburg a new turbine engine which will operate a vessel far better than any steam engine which has ever been devised. This turbine is to be operated, not by steam, but by wind power. Instead of a sailing vessel, as the type has been developed, driven by direct pressure of the wind upon the sails, and which must "beat" against a head wind or deflect from her course when the wind approaches too nearly the direction in which the vessel should head, the Westinghouse vessel is driven by a screw, the power to turn the screw being derived from the wind.

The high reputation of Westinghouse as an inventor, the work he has accomplished in the past, naturally inclines one to give a greater degree of attention to his claim than would be accorded similar claims advanced by an unknown man. The fundamental idea is not novel. Since the application of steam to the work of driving ships' inventors have from time to time brought forward suggestions for windmills on shipboard to furnish the motor power to drive the vessels. None of these inventions has proved practical in use. The direct driving power of the wind on the sails has proved far greater than that of any power which could be developed from any form of windmill. The Westinghouse invention may be and doubtless is a great improvement over any of the crude devices of the past. Its appearance will be awaited with much interest.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

THE 'ANGRY TREE'

In Idaho there exists a species of the acacia tree which is entitled to be classed as one of the wonders of plant life. This tree attains a height of about 8 feet. When full grown it closes its leaves together in coils each day at sunset and curls its twigs to the shape of pigtails. When the tree has thus settled itself for its night's sleep, it is said that if touched it will flutter as if agitated or impatient at the disturbance. The oftener, it is averred, the foliage is molested, the more violent will become the shaking of the branches. Finally, it is further alleged, if the shaking be continued, the tree will at length emit a nauseating odor quite sufficient to induce a headache in the case of the person disturbing the tree.

In Idaho it is called the "angry tree," and it is said that it was discovered by men, who, on making camp for the night, placed one end of a canvas covering over one of the sensitive bushes, using it for a support. Immediately the tree began to jerk its branches sharply. The motion continued with increasing "nervousness" until at last came a sickening odor that drove the tired campers to a more friendly location.

Curiosity prompted an investigation. One of the "angry trees" was dug up and thrown to one side. Immediately upon being removed from the ground, it is said that the tree opened its leaves, its twigs lost their pigtails, and for something over an hour and a half the outraged branches showed their indignation by a series of quakes, which grew weaker and weaker and ceased when the foliage had become limp and withered.—Harper's Weekly.

BEWARE OF COLDS.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.
